

JAP LOSSES HEAVY IN KULA GULF BATTLE

The War Today...

By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP War Analyst

THE opening of the heavy German offensive along a 165-mile front in the Orel-Belgorod sector—the bloody cockpit in the Russo-German battle-line south of Moscow—may signal the breaking of the great storm which has been hanging over Europe for weeks.

Whether this is a final all-out attempt by a desperate Hitler to crush the Russian armies isn't yet apparent, but it's a major operation which already has produced fierce fighting, and it might easily develop into the big show-down.

In short, this may be the crisis which should disclose in the near future what the duration of the Russian portion of the World War is likely to be. The Nazi chief will have to put his resources on parade.

The Germans probably have impelled to undertake this belated offensive either for the purpose of forestalling a Russian drive—which Berlin has been predicting—or because they have decided that they are fairly safe from an immediate Allied invasion of western Europe. Both factors may enter into the situation.

PART and parcel of this attack undoubtedly is the phenomenon of the sudden appearance of fresh Nazi aerial support for the Italians in the battle for Sicily. Apparently Herr Hitler's harassed intuition has done a sudden backflip and made him revise his decision to leave it entirely to Benito (soft-under-belly-of-Europe) Mussolini to stand off the Allied invasion which has been bearing down on him.

The Nazi chief's recent attitude has been that of abandoning his partner in crime as no longer useful to the Axis cause. Hitler's change of mind, if not of heart, is easily understandable in view of the opening of the Russian drive. He has decided to impede the Allied operations in the Mediterranean as much as possible while he is engaged in Russia.

German and Italian airmen over the fourth gave American and British squadrons attacking Sicily the heaviest opposition since the height of the Tunisian campaign. Everywhere the Axis air defense forces were strong and the Nazis, as would be expected, were particularly active and apparently taking the lead in resisting the fierce Allied bombing.

It isn't yet clear how much air power Hitler has shifted to Italy or may be prepared to send there. He has been conserving his Luftwaffe for emergencies. He not only has been considering the feasibility of inaugurating a final grand offensive against the Reds, but has

Probe Demands Sprout After New Jones-Wallace Flareup

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, July 6.—Six-foot-two Jesse Jones, the administration's banker, and Vice President Henry Wallace, who out-wrestles soldiers at the Stage Door Canteen, apparently were only warming up in their week-long verbal slugging match. Today, their appraisals of each other had hit a new high in recrimination.

The latest explosion—over the policies of Wallace's Board of Economic Warfare and Jones' Reconstruction Finance Corp.—widened the rift so far that perhaps only the firm and personal touch of President Roosevelt can heal it. His trouble-shooter, James F. Byrnes, failed when he made an initial attempt.

Jones, accused by Wallace of holding up BEW's purchases of strategic war materials, opened up both barrels last night. He used 7,500 words to tell what he thinks about Wallace—none of it complimentary.

In Wallace's absence, his second, Milo Perkins of BEW, took up the cudgels and shot back that Jones and his RFC had acted like the fabled sleeper, Rip Van Winkle.

Jones addressed his remarks to the senate appropriations committee. Perkins replied in a letter to the same group.

The big, placid-looking Jones spoke in this vein:

"His (Wallace's) tirade is so filled with malice, innuendo, half-truths, and no truths at all, that considerations of self-respect and of common justice to my associates force me to expose his unscrupulous tactics."

He took up one by one the vice president's complaints that RFC had held up BEW purchases of beryllium, cobalt, corundum, tantalum, zirconium and quartz crystal and he denied them all.

A letter by Perkins of BEW to the same senate committee accused Jones of throwing up a smoke screen.

"He has not proved and cannot prove he bought what the vice president charged him with not buying," wrote Perkins.

Defeat Of Japanese In Two Years Seen By Chiang Kai-Shek

(By Associated Press)
CHUNGKING, July 6.—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek told China today on the eve of the sixth anniversary of the outbreak of the conflict with Japan the time limit for utter defeat of the aggressor "cannot exceed two years."

"In the seventh year of our war of resistance," he said in his anniversary message, "an offensive that will deal crushing blows to the enemy will be started in various theaters of the world and there will be an unending stream of victories."

"Our war of resistance and the world war situation on this day have reached the highest peak of our uphill struggle," he went on.

"One step beyond will be smooth sailing for us."

His message was one of a series of confident predictions from Chinese leaders of a complete Allied victory and elimination of Japan as military power.

Declaring the situation in the far east has changed greatly for the better in the past year, General Ho Ying-Chin, war minister and army chief of staff, said the United Nations are growing stronger daily. Japan is facing an acute manpower shortage, is far weaker in sea strength, has been surpassed in the air, and is running into difficult material and food problems.

The war minister placed the total number of Japanese casualties at around 3,000,000 men.

Estimating Japan's first line planes at not more than 3,000, General Ho declared it should not be difficult for the United Nations to wipe out the enemy air force and cover a direct attack on Japan when the time comes.

YOUTH, 17, ADMITS KILLING BOY, SIX Farm Hand Attacks Child With Hammer Because Boy 'Razzed' Him

(By Associated Press)
CELINA, July 6.—Louis Vernon Hand, a 17-year-old farm hand, was held in jail here today after police said he admitted slaying six-year-old Richard Stober for "razzing" him about his work.

The suspect was arrested yesterday at Greenville after the slain child's body was found stuffed behind a bale of straw in a barn near the farm home of his father, Rufus Stober.

Police Chief Ora McClellan of Greenville said Hand, an employee on the Stober farm, confessed killing the child Sunday because he "made me mad." The police chief said Hand told him the Stober boy's father had reprimanded him for not taking proper care of a piece of farm equipment and the boy chided him about it.

"Richard razzed me about not greasing the cultipacker and this made me mad," McClellan quoted the youth. "I grabbed a claw-hammer and hit him on the head three or four times. I also hit him on the neck and over the heart."

He said Hand told him he was the son of an Ansonia railroad crossing watchman, that he was on probation from federal district court at Toledo for auto theft and that he previously had been committed to the Boys' Industrial school at Lancaster for car stealing.

Germans Strike On 165-Mile Front In Long-Awaited Blow

MOSCOW DECLARES ENEMY REPULSED

Losses Reported High As Nazis Attack With Air, Ground Forces

(By Associated Press)
MOSCOW, July 6.—Vicious German thrusts by armored divisions and infantry have been flung back with heavy losses all along the 165-mile central front from Orel to Belgorod, the Russians reported today as the long-expected Nazi summer offensive moved into its second day.

Despite terrific destruction to their armored units, amounting in some cases to as high as 50 percent of total attacking strength, the Nazi army kept boring into the heavily defended positions. In only isolated sectors, however, have they managed to penetrate the defense lines. Red army leaders said.

The Russian midnight communique said in the initial hours of the battle Red army units destroyed 586 tanks and 203 planes.

The midday communique reported an additional 152 tanks were knocked out of the fight. The communique also reported 6,000 Germans had been slain.

Last Great Test
Military experts said it was too early yet to speculate whether Hitler aims to try to capture Moscow to the north, the Caucasian oil fields to the south, or both.

The Russian people feel that this is the last great test for the Red army. They are confident but soberly aware of the great effort involved.

(The German communique reported heavy fighting in the Belgorod and Kursk areas and declared it grew out of "a successful local attack by German infantry" in the Belgorod sector followed by "strong Soviet counterattacks.")

(The fighting lines spread to the area north of Kursk and is "assuming ever greater violence," said the communique broadcast by Berlin and recorded by the Associated Press.)

Dispatches reaching Moscow from the front said the Nazis used classic tactics—a smashing artillery barrage coupled with heavy air bombardment designed to destroy Russian men and guns and blast a path through the Russian line for the German infantry and armored divisions.

Infantry Still There
The dispatches said the first wave to reach the Russian positions found that the heavy barrage designed to hack lanes through the Soviet lines had failed and that the Russian infantry was still there.

The succeeding steps in the assault apparently found the Germans employing the familiar pattern of attack by tank units, followed by infantry with small groups of bombers supporting from the air.

In the Orel-Kursk sector, the Russians said 100 tanks broke through their defenses, but Soviet infantry barred the way to oncoming Nazi foot troops while artillery in the rear shelled the tanks. The Germans were reported to have swung into swift retreat after 38 of the 100 tanks were damaged.

The Russians admitted the Germans succeeded in occupying two settlements in one sector of the Belgorod front but said they were dislodged by counter-attacks and retreated, leaving hundreds of dead.

The offensive which began yesterday was not unexpected by the Russians. For weeks they have predicted that it was soon to come and even said that it would begin in the Orel-Kursk-Belgorod area.

U.S. Airmen Down 30 Enemy Fighters In Sicilian Duel

(By Associated Press)
ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, July 6.—A furious air battle developed over Gerbini yesterday during a Flying Fortress raid on that Sicilian airfield. Allied headquarters announced today. The American gunners shot down 30 of approximately 100 attacking enemy fighters.

The communique described the resistance there as "vigorous."

Other Allied air squadrons inflicted damage on three other landing fields in Sicily—at Licata, Marsala and Sciacca, the war bulletin said.

Allied plane losses were placed at 12 during yesterday and the night before, when night bombers blasted targets at Villaciadro, in Sardinia, and at Catania, in Sicily.

More than 60 Liberator bombers based in the Middle East joined in the devastating raids, shaking Messina in Sicily with nearly 375,000 pounds of bombs, a communique of the U. S. Ninth Air Force declared.

Strike In Waves
Hits blanketing the ferry terminal installations in Messina "caused extensive damage," the communique said, and bombs were laid on railway tracks, a roundhouse, a warehouse, freight yards, oil tanks and barracks by the liberators striking in three waves. One string of bombs "fell across the Lazaretto mole."

The Liberators downed three enemy planes and returned without loss themselves.

The headquarters war bulletin reported yesterday and the night before the northwest African air forces had knocked down 42 aircraft, including the 30 at Gerbini.

In contrast, the German communique as broadcast from Berlin and recorded by The Associated Press asserted the British-American air forces lost 51 planes, mostly four-engine bombers, "in repeated thrusts against the Sicilian coasts yesterday."

(The Italian communique, recorded by The Associated Press, said the raids at Messina, Catania and Marsala caused "limited" damage and casualties. This communique reported an Axis raid on the Harbor of Bizerte, claim not immediately confirmed by Allied sources.)

The swarms of enemy fighters met yesterday over Gerbini gave new indications that the Axis had rushed aerial reinforcements to the Mediterranean theater, where the weekend saw the Allied offensive reach a new peak of intensity with many air attacks on Sicily and Sardinia and a British commando-type job at Crete. Small bodies of British troops dashed on to the beaches of Axis-held Crete from shallow draft vessels Sunday night, raided airfields, destroyed grounded planes, left a number of oil dumps afire, and withdrew safely. The raid was announced last night in a Cairo communique.

In a broadcast to the Greek patriots on Crete, the British ministry of information in London quickly pointed out that "this is not an invasion" and cautioned them not to betray themselves by premature resistance.

JAPS RISK FLEET TO STEM ADVANCE

Loss of Destroyer Strong Follows Sinking of Transport

BULLETIN

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, July 6.—The Navy reported today that on the basis of incomplete information U. S. naval forces apparently had caused the Japanese very heavy damage in the battle of Kula gulf.

Details of the action, fought yesterday (Solomon Islands time) and apparently all over now, still were lacking, but there was no disposition in authoritative quarters here to consider it as a major encounter with decisive bearing on the Solomons campaign.

The impression prevailed rather that it was an action between fairly light surface forces of cruisers and destroyers. Whether bombing planes participated was not known.

A Navy communique said that "sufficient details have not been received to give the results of this engagement, but it is believed that, while some damage was suffered by the United States force, considerable damage was inflicted on the enemy."

At the same time the Navy announced that the United States Destroyer Strong was torpedoed and sunk Sunday night while engaged in a previously announced bombardment of Japanese installations at Vila and Paloko on Kula gulf, which lies between New Georgia island and Kolombangara island in the Munda air base area.

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, July 6.—Official reports of a naval battle in the Central Solomons indicated today the South Pacific offensive was rapidly gaining one of its most important objectives—that of forcing the Japanese navy to come out and fight.

Even in the absence of word that major forces were engaged, this new "battle of Kula gulf" was regarded here as of great significance, for it showed that the Japanese felt compelled to accept the challenge and risk a part of their South Pacific fleet in an effort to check the American advance.

The situation appeared to be somewhat similar to that during the fighting for Guadalcanal last fall which culminated in the decisive battle of mid-November when American task forces smashed a Japanese sea borne drive to recon-

FROM BAD TO WORSE?

The question left unanswered by last week's moves on the legislative front of the struggle to keep food on the American table is "What next?"

Nothing whatever was settled. Congress marched up the hill and marched back down again, so to speak. It refused its approval for a government policy, then refused to back up its disapproval. Subsidies remain in status quo.

Unfortunately, everything else remains in status quo, too, including the fact that back of the subsidies, which are primarily concerned with the welfare of the consumer, the welfare of producers and processors continues to be uncertain that there is a breakdown in some fields of food distribution.

The country can withstand the shock of discovering that in the midst of the growing season food distribution is in a mess. This is a psychological crisis, not a dietary crisis. The shortages that have occurred in some lines, such as beef, are not serious as far as mass nutrition is concerned.

The possibility is, however, that in the absence of a comprehensive food program things may move from bad to worse next winter. For the sake of popular confidence in the home front management of the war there needs to be speedy action to furnish what has been lacking so far—a food policy that embodies something more than willy-nilly measures put into effect as often as not to conceal the fact there is no food policy.

ALWAYS ROOM FOR ONE MORE

It is a curiously impressive fact that official warnings, an advertising campaign and common gossip about the hardships in store failed to avert the greatest weekend transportation jam of the year and perhaps of history.

The effect of all this extensive and intensive effort to discourage travel apparently was to convince the potential traveler there would be room for one more.

On the theory that "necessary" trips were permissible, moreover, he had the best excuse in the world. His trip was absolutely necessary. As the OPA learned when it tried to restrict motorists to necessary trips, no one ever makes a really unnecessary trip, in his own opinion, unless he is called on to justify it to an outsider.

Most of the mass psychology problems of government in connection with the war have been approached in a manner that suggested uncertainty. A trained psychologist, confronted with the problem of keeping the general public from swamping an overworked and overloaded transportation system over a holiday weekend, probably would fall back on one of the tried and true methods of keeping the public at a distance. He would cause it to be noised about that investigators would be on hand to let travelers explain why it was "necessary" for them to be on the move. Just the rumor would have been enough to keep thousands of them at home where tens of thousands belonged who went riding on trains and buses, instead.

CALLING ON CONGRESS

Concerning the feud between Vice President Wallace and Secretary of Commerce Jones there is nothing to be said. Plainly, these two men intend to take care of each other without any advice from the sidelines.

It is noteworthy, however, if only for the novelty, that Mr. Jones has demanded a congressional investigation to clear his name. This must be the first time in history that a member of the cabinet has asked congress to get him out of trouble.

He does not specify which house of congress he prefers, or whether he is thinking of simultaneous investigations. The latter might be embarrassing, with Mr. Wallace as presiding officer of the senate.

However, any investigation would be embarrassing to the majority, on the assumption that one of the two cabinet members concerned would get the worst of it, whichever way the investigating committee might be loaded—whether for Mr. Wallace of the New Deal, or Mr. Jones, strongly suspected of being old dealish. The difficulties loom so large that a congressional investigation probably will not get past the talking point stage.

TRAITOR MAX STEPHAN

On grounds of law, Traitor Max Stephan's presidential commutation of sentence is justified. His treason was more emotional than deliberate. If the German aviator, Krug, had not escaped and reached Stephan, the latter could not have helped him and, therefore, would not have been convicted.

But it should be plain to Germans and to Americans that Traitor Stephan did not escape death because of any softness in the attitude of Americans toward him and his kind. Bund-coddling is out of fashion in the United States, but it cannot be certain it will stay that way.

The Max Stephans and all subversionists should be taken at their face value. They never could have existed without the compassion they deny others—the compassion they seek to destroy. As the New Yorker magazine puts it, the question for the future is not whether the United States can overcome German arrogance and paranoia, but whether the United States can overcome its own weakness for forgetting that Germany is arrogant and paranoid.

SUSPENSE

Heavy damage to Axis morale from invasion suspense is being claimed and is indicated by the evidence available in the form of radio broadcasts and newspaper reports from Axis countries.

Meanwhile, Americans hear from their own army's chief of supply, Lieut. Gen. Brethen Somervell, that something apparently has been happening to their own morale, judged by important declines in the rate of industrial production. Perhaps there is closer connection than is apparent.

Gen. Somervell suggests that his countrymen are complacent and taking victory for granted. Anything that would bring the invasion suspense to an end might be as good for the United States as for the Axis. The Axis powers would know what they were up against, and Americans would have a clearer idea of what they are going to need to do.

Suspense may have contributed to the illusion that all they need to do is no more than they've been doing—a condition which would be changed in short order once new major action began. It was not accidental that morale in this country needed no improvement at the close of last year after the North Africa invasion.

WHILE THINGS on all planes of endeavor may continue at high tempo, urged on by energies, forces and facilities greatly stimulated and pushing on toward the attainment of progressive goals, yet there may be sudden disruptions, strange reversals or peculiar quirks, calling for determination, shrewd management and quick action to avert disintegration. Erratic impulses, nervous strain or overtaxed energies might prove detrimental. Maintain poise and practical constructive methods and sound plans for definite success and satisfaction.

Those whose birthday it is may be keyed up to high tempo for grasping most promising circumstances for putting the future with its activities, progress and practical achievements on an enduring and solid basis. There may be a disruptive or disintegrating forces to cope with, arising suddenly and having strange or peculiar angles to manipulate with skill and ingenuity. Keep calm, balanced and practical and all should succeed.

Washington Round-up

News and Views, Briefly On What's Going On In Capital

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 6.—Congress and the administration appeared today to be going down different streets on such varied ideas as crop insurance, regulation of the government's relations to the business world.

The lawmakers posed these problems for the executive branch:

The senate yielded to the house and agreed to knock out of the farm appropriation all funds for crop insurance except enough to allow the system to liquidate. Sufficient money to continue the administration program for a year was immediately written into another bill but, in view of the stiff attitude in the house, the fate of this clause was problematical.

The house ways and means committee voted against continuing the six-year-old Guffey act placing the bituminous industry under government regulation as to prices and marketing conditions. This was done in the face of appeals by President Roosevelt, the United Mine Workers, and some operators. A resolution to extend the act until the end of the year was called up by the rules committee with members forecasting unfavorable action.

Chairman George (D-Ga.) disclosed that the senate's committee on postwar planning had ordered an investigation of "restraints" on business—including that he called government competition with private enterprise, the effect of taxes on industrial operations and the weight of government regulations. George said his own long-range view tended toward minimizing government participation in business affairs.

Action in congress was concentrated in conference committees striving for agreement on appropriations so that the lawmaking body can quit this week for a summer vacation.

Faced with the task of finding more revenue to siphon off excess purchasing power, treasury officials disclosed they are studying the possibilities of a new tax system to be applied specifically to war-swollen incomes. The plan would entail broadening the present system of basic exemptions. The idea would be to exact more from the person who is paid more in wartime than from the person whose income has been scanty.

D. C. Speaker, mythical but authoritative capital source, disclosed that President Roosevelt was vexed by a decision of stabilization Director Fred M. Vinson turning down an eight-cents-an-hour pay increase for railway workers in non-operating jobs. Hence, D. C. said, administration advisers are searching about for a thornier way to backtrack on that prohibition.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—When Mrs. Raymond Hammond, asleep, heard a man moving about the room, she asked: "Is that you, Raymond?" "Yes, dear," the man replied, "where is the money?" "In the usual place in the bureau," Mrs. Hammond sleepily replied. But it didn't happen to be Raymond and the money was gone when Mrs. Hammond finally awoke.

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

Care of the Heart In Middle Age

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

FOR A year or more anyway most of the work back home here is going to be done by middle aged people and since most of the stress of middle aged life falls on the heart, some sensible rules for taking care of these hearts are quite refreshed them and made them healthy when they were young and they can't bear to give it up. But it won't do.

Avoid Being Tired

When the golfer reaches 55, he had better reduce his rounds from 18 holes four times a week to 18 holes twice a week and 9 holes ones a week. When he gets to be 60, he had better reduce it to 9 holes three times a week. When he gets to be 65, he had better reduce it to 9 holes twice a week or better, 6 holes twice a week. A man or woman at 55 should never exercise—even with moderate exercise such as walking—to the point of getting the least bit tired.

3. "A balanced dietary program in order. Such is the view advanced by Dr. O. P. J. Falk, of St. Louis, in HYGEIA, The Health Magazine, in a recent issue. The doctor suggests the following rules of preservation:

1. "Attempt to establish a balanced plan of living with sufficient sleep (at least 50 hours a week) and adequate leisure periods." Fifty hours of sleep a week is a little over 7 hours a night. I would be inclined to add that they should make it hours if possible. Because you can just go to bed and read a detective story or turn on the radio. This conduces to keeping quiet, not jumping up and moving around. And the time you spend that way is almost as good as if you were asleep, for recreation purposes. So I believe Dr. Falk would be willing to accept my emendation—that they spend 70 hours a week in bed.

2. "Establish and maintain some well-balanced, moderate exercise program suited to middle aged needs. It is interesting to speculate on just what influence the replacement of man's habit of walking by increasing use of the motor car may be having on the increase in middle age heart disease we are witnessing today."

The problem of exercise for the middle aged here is emphasized: That they need some exercise, but they do not need as much as they once did. Too many middle aged people carry over the ideal of a vigorous youth into their middle aged exercise habits. The old football star, the fellow who has on his mantelpiece the Country Club tennis championship cup, 1910, the former city golf champion—all these have to be restrained in their lust for exercise. Exercise is important, but special emphasis should be placed on moderation in the size of meals and on a quiet and unhurried manner of eating. As exercise goes down, the total consumption of food should go down in about the same ratio at the same ages. I see no reason to change the type of eating, but by the time you are 60 you should take about one-half of what you think you want, have a helping and when you are finished with it, ask yourself whether you are not satisfied. War rationing may save the lives of hundreds and thousands of our middle aged friends. It is a blessing in disguise.

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE

"Are you in love with him?" he demanded fiercely. "Was there anything between you? Answer me—or I'll throttle the truth out of you!" His face was purple.

"No, Avery! No! Never!" she said.

"Then why are you acting like a crazy queen? You are in love with that double-eyed crook!" he accused her.

She closed her eyes. Her lips quivered, but no sound came from them.

"Answer! Now!"

"No! Not if it was only—he danced so well—and everyone in my set liked him—that was all! I never saw Avery!"

Before he could speak, she slipped sideways in the chair and would have slithered to the floor had he not caught her. He lifted her in his arms and carried her to a leather settee. He pressed a handkerchief to her forehead.

When she opened a double-lidded eye, she said hoarsely:

"Lous was revived. She faltered, over the glass rim: 'It was the shock of hearing that someone I loved was arrested! It's horrible, Avery!'"

"For me, too. I lost plenty on the race. Not that I care if only I can save your good name—or what's left of it. When Hank Bruger is through talking to the dicks and the reporters!" he growled.

"But you mustn't let him talk," she wildly implored him. "There wasn't anything ever wrong between us, but he'll make it seem that way—as bad as he is, he won't let it be blackmail, Avery!"

"You've been a long time finding that out," he growled.

But so small and frightened she looked, with her baby face grown queerly old, that his pity was pained. Jealousy and love fought within him. But love conquered.

"I guess this'll be a sharp lesson to you not to trifle with blackguards, honey," he said more kindly. "You stay here, and I'll bring the car round. You're to drive straight home, and give instructions that no one is to answer the telephone, or anyone to be admitted, on account of the reporters."

"I'll do anything you say, dear. Kiss me Avery—just for old times' sake!" she wept.

"There, there!" He kissed her and patted her shoulder. "I'm going back to the Biltmore. When Bruger arrives, I won't press the charges against him, but I'll see to it that he's kicked out of Florida, never to re-enter the state."

She kissed him more heartily than she had ever done in all the years of their marriage. "I'm so glad. Our social position would be ruined if—"

Her husband cut her off right then and there.

"From now on, you're going to be a real wife to me, Lous. You're going to live with me in Lexington on the farm. I'm going to sell our Miami Beach house. And don't you ever dare mention social position again!" he ordered her sharply.

Julia's telephone call from Key West shortly before midnight brought a measure of relief to Jim.

"Her pulse is better. Her temperature's down. She's sleeping quietly. The doctor says he believes she's safely passed the crisis," Julia told him over the wire.

"Call me if there's any change, won't you, Julia?" he asked.

"She promised. But I don't think there will be unless for the better," she assured him.

Next day's paper carried a paragraph that Hank Bruger had been found at Oriental Park in New Orleans and brought to Miami by plane. That charges against him had been dropped, but he had been ordered to leave the State of Florida for good!

Also that the jockey, Steve Gubins, now suspended, had absolutely denied that there was any "blonde" of any kind mixed in the affair!

Jim drew a sigh of thankfulness when he read the fateful item. Two weeks passed. Ann was mending rapidly. Julia, however, remained with her. Her air line had given her protracted leave of absence.

Vince stayed on in Key West. Not only had he to supervise the rebuilding of his damaged yacht, but he wanted to be near Ann.

Julia and he often drove around the quaint little town.

Getting an insight into his real kindness, his thoughtfulness for her comfort as well as that of her sister, Julia became very fond of Vince. He was a good egg, she considered.

One night, under the moon that sparkled on the sea, and with the soft air caressing them, he told her that if it hadn't been for Ann and his feeling for her, he might easily have fallen for her—Julia.

He brought Ann flowers daily. And posies for Julia as well. He paid all the hospital bills, since the accident had happened on his yacht. And he insisted on buying a complete outfit for Julia. He declared he would outfit Ann, too, on her recovery.

"No, Marks-Park Avenue will send me the necessary clothes," said Ann. "I'll pay the firm back when I return to my job."

At that, Vince and Julia avoided looking at each other. Poor Ann! Her once lovely face was still bandaged—and heaven alone knew how it would be after those bandages were finally removed!

One day Ann said to her sister:

"Julia, please tell me the truth. Do the doctors think I will look the same again? My face and neck and arms, I mean?"

"Of course you will, honey," Julia managed to answer bravely. Meanwhile, Jim wrote regularly to Ann. He had wanted to come down, but Ann put him off. Julia was convinced just the same, that the flier's letters were a potent aid to Ann's rapid recovery.

Yet the invalid would fall into blue moods, at times.

Julia thought worriedly: "She's in love with Jim Brent. She's thinking that when he sees her without the bandages, he'll maybe turn away from her! If he does, frying is too good for him, I'll say!"

She was reconciled to Ann's wanting him. But would Jim want her, if her beauty were destroyed?

It was a relief for Julia, thinking these things, to get away from the hospital, off on some jaunt with Vince.

A first-class tailor was making suits for Vince here. "I want you to pick out a length of that lovely doeskin cloth for yourself, Julia," he told her one day, "and my tailor will make it into a suit for you."

Julia didn't demur at all. To have money spent on her was an unaccustomed pleasure. . . .

Vince certainly wouldn't miss it. He urged her to select, at his expense, a "dusty pink" shade.

"I think tan would be more becoming with my dark skin," protested Julia, "though the pink is lovely."

Vince declared firmly: "Pink it shall be. It'll liven you up. You're a darn good-looking wench, my dear! In fact," he added, squeezing her hand, "I believe I shall adopt you. I've grown mighty fond of you, Julia!"

Thereafter, it wasn't only Ann who meditated.

Returning to the latter at the hospital, Julia found her sitting up in bed, an open letter in her hand. Ann said excitedly: "It's from Jim! What do you think, he's coming for an aviation job to Key West. He arrives tomorrow! Isn't it wonderful?"

"Ain't love wonderful! Ain't it grand?" Julia teased.

"You think," quavered Ann, "that he—you know what I mean, Julia?"

"Sure. He's nuts about you. Always was. But Julia was afraid. Afraid that when the bandages were removed from the once lovely face, the flier might feel different about her sister.

She prayed it wouldn't be so. Now reconciled to the fact that Ann never would accept Vince—she lamented that no longer—it would be terrible if Jim didn't reciprocate Ann's feelings!

Jim arrived at the hospital, looking handsome and eager and shy. Julia met him. She had decided to tell him plainly that there possibly would be permanent scars. "But the plastic surgeons are extremely skillful nowadays," she added, "and, of course, Vince, in the circumstances, would engage the very best."

She saw his face shadow. What did that imply? That he couldn't bear the thought of Ann's beauty gone? Or that he hated the thought of Vince paying her bills?

"She isn't at all strong yet. I hope you'll act cheerfully in front of her," she rather tartly cautioned him.

"Certainly I shall."

Ohioans Played Important Role In Papuan Campaign

By MURLIN SPENCER

Associated Press Writer
SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA, July 6—The complete story of the Papuan campaign and the part Ohioans played in it is, in a story of heroism by scores of men from a corporal who wiped out a machine gun nest by tossing hand grenades into loopholes to the commanding general who spent hour after hour in the front lines encouraging his men.

Ohio's story of the campaign is the story of Corporal Rini and Private Scarfo, of Lieutenant Hunt and Lieutenant Colonel McCreary, of Generals Byers, Harding and Eichelberger.

Ohio contributed a distinguished group of men to the campaign. Some came through unscathed. Some did not. Here and there some heroic deeds were recognized by a grateful country.

Distinguished service cross for extraordinary heroism in action: Lieut. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger, commander of the Buna sector, awarded the Bronze Oak Leaf cluster in addition to the DSC; Brig. Gen. Clovis E. Myers, Columbus, also Purple Heart and Silver Star; Lieut. Col. Melvin L. McCreary, Youngstown; Corp. Daniel F. Rini, Wellsville; Pvt. Edward G. Squires, Akron; Lieut. James I. Hunt, Lima; Silver star for gallantry in action: Maj. Gen. Edwin F. Harding; Pvt. Sam Joseph Scarfo, Campbell; Pvt. Wilbur C. Bauman, Whitehouse; Lieut. Paul H. Maurer, Sidney; Staff Sgt. William F. Cherry, Columbus; Pvt. Howard A. Golding, Montpelier; Pvt. Edward L. Reising, Cleveland; Technician John Jubera, Jr., Powhatan Point; Pvt. Emil O. Medvin, Cleveland.

Certainly no other state contributed as many generals to the campaign. General Eichelberger, although his wife now is in Asheville, N. C., attended Ohio State university and it was remembering his home state when he named one of the forces at the front "Urban Force" and a second "Warren Force."

General Byers, who also attended Ohio State university and like General Eichelberger was a member of Phi Gamma fraternity, won the DSC, the highest award General MacArthur can give, for "extraordinary heroism near Buna Dec. 15."

* * * GOOD NEWS FROM THE PRODUCTION FRONT * * *

WORKING TOGETHER

American enterprise and its time-tested production methods are meeting and fulfilling the most imposing demands ever placed upon the industry of any country

IT HAS BEEN our privilege to play an important part in war production—geared with the supply services of the Army and Navy, and with almost 19,000 other producers who have worked with us.

Figures show how successful this "partnership" has been. But they do not show the valuable direction and cooperation we have had from Army and Navy officials. Nor do they indicate the fine spirit shown by our suppliers and sub-contractors.

While 18,735 organizations have shared our big job of war production, there have actually been more than 68,000 such "partnerships" established. For, in many cases, several divisions have gone to the same source, for different types of work.

It is interesting to note that nearly three-fourths of the firms which have furnished us parts for war products, employ less than 500 people. Of these more than half employ 100 or less.

We have chosen our sub-contractors and suppliers carefully, in order to secure those best qualified for the work at hand.

In this we have had one great advantage: "Sub-contracting" is merely a wartime extension of a time-honored General Motors method. We have always dealt with thousands of suppliers of materials and parts.

And so we have known how to proceed in establishing sources dependable as to both quality and efficiency of performance—not only among organizations with which we have formerly worked, but also with thousands of others.

This sub-contracting "know-how"—combined with manufacturing "know-how"—is largely responsible for the consistent quality of the war goods produced. It also accounts for cost reductions totaling hundreds of millions of dollars.

The "partnership" of the Armed Forces, General Motors and the thousands of other businesses involved—some large, some small—is but one example of cooperative wartime endeavor by the automobile industry.

All companies in this mass-production industry have been cooperating with one another—and with organizations not formerly supplying the automotive industry—in order to utilize all knowledge and facilities suited to the task.

The success of this method demonstrates one fact of tremendous importance to all Americans:

American enterprise and its time-tested production methods are meeting and fulfilling the most imposing demands ever placed upon the industry of any country.

FACTS ON GENERAL MOTORS SUB-CONTRACTING

Total number of sub-contractor-supplier connections with GM divisions 68,505
Number of separate organizations from which GM purchased parts, materials, services and supplies 18,735

Size of organizations furnishing us with parts for war production—as indicated by special survey—was as follows:
Firms employing less than 100 people 43%
Firms employing 100 to 500 people 31%
Firms employing more than 500 people 26%

General Motors' policy on sub-contractors and suppliers has resulted in the spread of approximately one-half its war work to outside firms. The figures above are taken from an exhaustive study of sub-contracting prepared in connection with a recent report to the War Department.

Polish Premier One Of 15 Killed When RAF Plane Crashes

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, July 6.—Prime Minister Churchill told the house of commons today the death of General Wladyslaw Sikorski, premier of the Polish government-in-exile who was killed Sunday in an air crash at Gibraltar, is "one of the heaviest strokes we have sustained."

At the same time the house advised that Brig. Gen. J. P. White- ley, a member of parliament, was among the 15 persons killed in the crash of the Liberator aircraft which was bearing Sikorski home from an inspection of Polish forces in the Middle East.

Representatives of the Polish government looked on from the galleries as the prime minister solemnly told the house that "we learned yesterday that the cause of the United Nations has suffered a most grievous loss."

Sikorski, who in addition to being premier had served as commander in chief of the Polish armed forces, "commanded the devoted loyalty of the Polish people, now tortured and struggling in Poland itself," Churchill said.

Sikorski's body lay in state today in the Roman Catholic cathedral in Gibraltar.

Beside him lay the body of General Tadeusz Kilmecki, chief of the Polish general staff, who met death in the same accident.

The crash took the lives of 12 other persons, including General Sikorski's 29-year-old daughter, Mrs. Sophia Lesniowska, Colonel Andrzej Marecki, chief of the Polish army operational section and an expert in military science: Colonel Gralewski, Lieutenant Poblewski, Sikorski's naval aide: Adam Kul- akowski, the premier's private secretary, and Colonel Victor Alexan- der Cazalet, a member of the British parliament.

Only survivor of the crash was the pilot of the plane.

It was reported in London that the mishap was due to an engine failure.

The Polish party was enroute to London from the Middle East, where the premier had been visiting a large contingent of Polish troops.

President Wladyslaw Raczkiewicz appointed Deputy Premier Stanislaw Mikolajewski to serve as acting premier pending the selection of Sikorski's successor.

LANDSCAPING ADDS TO HOME'S BEAUTY

Cope's Nursery Can Help You Beautify Surroundings Now

If you have not landscaped your home you have almost certainly been envious of your friends plantings. You will agree that a well landscaped home is much more attractive and in several ways more desirable.

The important point to consider, if you are one who will soon have your home made as beautiful as that now is the time to make the arrangements. To realize the best results the ground should be prepared this summer, some plants do better in some types of soil, some in others, some should be planted where some shade is provided, some in dry spots, some in moist, etc.

It's all rather complicated if you are not well posted and this is where the services of a nurseryman of real experience comes in. By phoning 3548 and asking for Joseph Cope you will be in contact with a man of unusual experience not only in landscape planning but in actually growing and propagating hundreds of varieties of the finest evergreens and ornamental trees, shrubs, as well as fruit trees. Mr. Cope will come to your home and show you just what should be done, now, so that this fall you can set out your landscape plantings.

Wiggers Can Make Brake Adjustments

Wiggers Sales and Service, 168 S. Ellsworth ave., make a specialty of brake adjusting. Their inspection, which takes but a very few minutes, will assure you one way or the other. Either the brakes are all O. K. or they do need adjusting and perhaps relining.

Many states have laws to enforce this inspection. Perhaps it's not the best way, but certainly everyone should willingly attend to this important matter, regardless.

Remember, just because the motor runs all right does not mean the car is safe. It's the steering mechanism, the wheels, the axle, and brakes that count, plus the condition of the tires and now that tires in most cases are not all we wish they were, is another extra reason why we should be extra sure the brakes are in perfect working order.

Placencia Is Ideal Spot For Picnic

There will be many a family who will have to spend their vacations close to home because of the gasoline rationing and it's just possible many will agree that it's just as well for within less than ten miles of Salem there are beauty spots many have never stopped to examine.

Lake Placencia, for example, is about as pretty as any body of water could be, high banks at the lower end, completely wooded with deep cool water abounding with fish of several varieties. The upper end tapers off, the water's edge is lined with cat tails and other such vegetation with pond lilies reaching out to their limit as the water deepens.

Here the Lake Placencia Park Co. has built a fine baseball diamond, shelter houses for picnic parties, a dance hall, refreshment stands and a dock for the boats.

Families always will find plenty of room for their picnic parties but arrangements for large gatherings should be made in advance by phoning Georgetown 5-F-12 and ask for Mr. Crist.

FINE REPAIR WORK AT SMITH GARAGE

Good Mechanics, Special Equipment Guarantee Good Job

Don Smith, of the Smith garage, at Third and Vine sts., is kept busy routing cars through their repair department, in order that more cars can be handled. As he puts it, "in the old days we simply started work on a particular car and forgot the others until it was done but today we plan the work more carefully than we ever imagined it could be done before."

Special tools and equipment such as the motor analyzer or grease rack are the key to many time-saving moves, such equipment can be kept in almost constant use by careful planning and in this way no mechanic is ever just waiting to use such equipment. It all adds up to more work done in any given day. More cars are kept on the road and its really more economical for the motorist.

It has always been the policy of Smith's garage to be just as interested in a customer's car after they had purchased it from them as making the original sale.

They have experienced mechanics, and at no time have shirked to care for anyone's car when it was at all possible to do the work, as ordered. All they ask is to give them time to do the work right. Help them make plans by notifying them in advance when you can of any work you expect to have done. You will not be disappointed.

Old Reliable Dairy Milk Guaranteed To Be Safe

Why can not raw milk be guaranteed as safe? The answer is, first, that even frequent inspections of dairies will not insure that infected bottles have been properly sterilized, that a safe water supply is used for cleansing milk utensils, and that milk containers have not been contaminated by flies.

Secondly, the answer is that even frequent health examinations of herds and of milk handlers sometimes fail to disclose disease or carrier conditions that may be present. A. W. Fuch, senior sanitary engineer, U. S. Public Health Service, reports.

It may be of interest to outline the mode of transmission of three types of milk-borne disease, undulant fever, typhoid fever, and septic sore throat. What precautions, short of pasteurization, can a dairyman take to insure that none of his customers will ever contract any of these diseases by drinking his milk?

In the case of undulant fever, the only recourse open to the dairyman is to have his cows tested for Bang's disease and to slaughter the reactors. Repeated testing is required to maintain a herd free from Bang's disease.

Often milk-borne typhoid fever epidemics are caused by carriers, a person who has had typhoid fever, perhaps years ago and who, though exhibiting no symptoms of illness, still carries typhoid fever organisms that find their way to the milk. It seems impossible, then, to escape the conclusion that all milk should be either pasteurized or boiled to make it safe.

For these reasons and others all milk or other dairy products that are sold by the Old Reliable Dairy, 840 W. Pershing st., are pasteurized even though, Virgil Wilson, the manager, is very particular regarding the source of his raw milk supplies for he feels it is his responsibility to be certain that no disease can be contracted from the products he delivers or sells at his store.

Baseball's Elite Turns Attention To Annual All-Star Game

INDIANS, ONE POINT ABOVE 7TH PLACE, TO FACE ATHLETICS

Tribe Makes Attempt To Recuparate From Holiday Weekend

(By Associated Press)
CLEVELAND, July 6.—After dropping from third to seventh place by not playing a doubleheader Sunday, and rising from seventh to sixth place by losing a doubleheader yesterday, the Cleveland Indians resort to after-dark play tonight in an effort to recoup from a tragic holiday weekend.

The Tribe scored one unearned run in 18 innings yesterday, losing 2 to 1 and 7 to 0 decisions to Philadelphia's last place Athletics.

Through the vagaries of the 1943 American league pennant race, however, the Indians rose to sixth place, over the also twice-beaten St. Louis Browns by the margin of a single percentage point.

Conrad Mack's lads stay on for a night game tonight and a matinee tomorrow.

Don Black and Luman Harris pitched the victories for Philadelphia yesterday, limiting the Tribe to four hits in each game. The Indians scored their lone run in the eighth inning of the first game, when the recently-hospitalized Hank Edwards tallied on a fielder's choice, a stolen base, a wild throw and a long fly.

Pete Buder homered in the third inning of the opener to start the A's and Bob Swift doubled in the eighth and scored on a single by Johnny Welsaj to provide the winning margin.

The Mackmen tallied in the second and sixth of the nightcap, the result of the only two hits given up by Vernon Kennedy in the five and a third innings he hurled. Al Milnar went out to the mound in the sixth after Kennedy walked three men in a row, forcing a run across the plate.

Milnar started the seventh with two passes and gave up singles to Harry Wagner, Dick Siebert and Bobby Estalella, which produced five runs before Pete Ceter could get out of the bullpen.

Jim Hagby lost the first game, his seventh defeat against seven victories. Kennedy, charged with nightcap loss, also is all square with two and two.

Edward W. Krause, basketball coach at Notre Dame, will continue to assist Frank Leahy in football.

REDS AFTER BOSTON FOR SEASONAL WIN

BOSTON, July 6.—The Cincinnati Reds attempt to win their first game of the season in Boston today after weather forced them to cancel yesterday's doubleheader with the Braves.

The Reds have yet to break into the win column under a Boston deadline because the Braves posted them three straight on their only other visit to this city.

Manager Bill McKechnie said his mound choice lay between Ray Starr and Elmer Riddle. Casey Stengel said his man would be either Al Javery or Nate Andrews.

PLACENTIA WINS FROM CARROLLTON

Miller of Visitors Holds Lakers to Four Hits, Gives Seven Passes

In a close battle marked by a dearth of base hits, Lake Placencia shut out the Carrollton Merchants, 4 to 0, on the lake grounds Monday afternoon.

Although he struck out nine and allowed only four hits, Miller, on the mound for the visitors, gave away seven passes. Hrovatic was touched for seven hits, which he kept scattered, and his control is indicated by the fact that he issued no bases on balls.

Jackson and P. Leatherberry touched Hrovatic for doubles and Carl connected for an extra base. Placencia had eight stranded on bases, Carrollton five.

Next Sunday afternoon the Akron Goodrich nine will be the attraction at Lake Placencia.

Joe Louis Praises Bivins As Fighter

(By Associated Press)
PITTSBURGH, July 6.—Jimmy Bivins of Cleveland, in the eyes of Sgt. Joe Louis, is the best of the heavyweight fighters active today.

But the Negro champion still considers Billy Conn, the handsome Pittsburgher who almost licked him in 1941, as his No. 1 challenger and declares, "he's the first fellow I want to meet when the war's over."

He rates 23-year-old Tami Murrelle, of New York No. 3. Among the men who would like to lift his crown.

Joe looked in perfect fighting trim, despite his 220 pounds, as he climbed into the ring here to referee three rounds of amateur boxing, with more than 10,000 persons lined to the bouts by his magic name.

"Sure I want to continue fighting but a lot depends on the war," Louis said. "There is a possibility it might retire me, but I don't want to say one way or the other."

SPORT CHATTER

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
NEW YORK, July 6.—Last December the Rev. Garis Long of Ashland, Ky., went for a quail hunt near Spartanburg, S. C.

While he was hunting, his favorite bird dog, Tillie, was lost and when all efforts to locate her failed, the Rev. Mr. Long had to go home dogless.

Last Saturday the minister took his family for a picnic near Ashland and who should turn up but Tillie, a bit lean and leg-weary after six months of wandering through the Carolinas, Virginia, Tennessee and Kentucky to get home.

"If the Rev. Mr. Long hadn't been a minister of the gospel," suggests John McGill, Jr., of the Ashland "Independent," "he could have told these long-winded fishermen where to go."

As proof that Mickey Owen does not have "rabbit ears," when the cards staged a huddle on strategy after Joe Medwick reached third in Sunday's game, Mickey became fidgety and wandered from the batter's box down to join the crowd.

And apparently he didn't hear much, for the cards diagnosed the squeeze play attempt and caught Medwick between third and home.

WINS IN SECOND
BALTIMORE, July 6.—Outclassing his opponent most of the way, George Koehman of Akron, O., scored a technical knockout over Howard Bennett, Baltimore Negro, in the seventh round of a scheduled 10-round fight last night.

Koehman weighed 164 and Bennett 164 1/2. The Ohioan, who claims the coast guard championship in his weight, scored a knockdown in the second.

COLUMBUS, July 6.—Buddy Walker, local Negro heavyweight, knocked out Leroy Lawson, 198-pound Detroit, in the eighth of a scheduled 10-round bout here last night. The 193-pound Walker downed Lawson for a nine count just before he delivered the knockout blow.

Bettors Set Record At N. Randall Track

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND, July 6.—The betting gentry poured a reported $82,455 across the mutual boards at North Randall track yesterday during a grand circuit racing program highlighted by the victory of Hambletonian-favored Volo Song in the feature event.

Grand circuit officials said the betting total was the largest sum wagered on a trotting race at the Randall oval in 15 years.

Volo Song won the $9,205 American trotting stake by taking first places in the third heat and runoff, after finishing eleventh and last in the opener and second the next time out. With venerable Ben White at the reins, Volo Song traveled the third heat in 2:03 1/4, fastest mile of the 1943 grand circuit season.

Phonograph racing for the first time, trotted to second place in the first, third and runoff heats, winning the second with a sparkling 2:05 1/4. Worthy Boy was driven by Veteran Sep Palin in a 2:05 1/4 first place in the first heat, and finished third in the remaining efforts.

Palin also won the Thomas Thomas 12 class pace when he drove Eddie D. home first in two heats for a $1,000 purse.

Nominees For Philadelphia Classic Next Tuesday Star In Fourth Of July Games

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
Now that baseball's booming Fourth of July bombardment is over the major leagues can turn their attention toward next Tuesday's annual All-Star game.

In the holiday celebration yesterday no fewer than ten of the sluggers selected for the dream game at Philadelphia were standouts.

The most spectacular fireworks was set off by Augie Galan of the Brooklyn Dodgers. He pulled the Dodgers out of a five-game losing streak by hitting a triple with the bases loaded in the first game and a grand slam homer in the second for a double victory over the Chicago Cubs 6-3 and 8-2.

Bill Nicholson of the Cubs, Stan Musial of St. Louis, Mel Ott of New York and Vince DiMaggio of Pittsburgh were other National league All-Star nominees who punched round-trippers.

Musial's blow in the seventh decided the second game of a doubleheader at Philadelphia in the Cardinals' favor 4-3 after the world champions had been shelacked 15-2 in the opening contest.

The split shaved St. Louis' National league lead to three games. In the day's other National league show Pittsburgh beat the New York Giants 8-4 and then was shutout 9-0, when Ott hit his 12th homer of the season.

Cincinnati at Boston was postponed because of the weather. Yankees Win Twice
In the American league the New York Yankees took two games at St. Louis 3-2 and 8-5, but the first affair was not won until Joe Gordon smacked his ninth homer in the 11th inning.

The Browns thought they had bagged the game with two runs in the ninth and were in the clubhouse eating ice cream when they learned they hadn't. They thought they had tallied the winning run on John Landell's throw into the St. Louis dugout, but after first allowing the run, the umpire yielded to the protests of Joe McCarthy that Milt Byrnes was entitled only to go to third, and called the Browns back onto the field.

Besides Gordon, Chet Laabs and Vernon Stephens of St. Louis, Rudy York of Detroit and Bob Johnson of Washington, all American league All-Stars hit homers. York's blow with two on figured in Detroit's 10-3 triumph over the second place Senators. Johnson's, with one on, provided the margin of Washington's 6-4 victory.

The Chicago White Sox split two with the Boston Red Sox, beating Tex Hughson 4-2 in the opener then losing the second 6-1. A pair of four-hit pitching performances by Don Black and Luman Harris gave the Philadelphia Athletics twin triumphs over the Cleveland Indians 2-1 and 7-0.

JAP LOSSES HIGH IN PACIFIC FIGHT

U. S. Destroyer Strong Torpedoed During Kula Gulf Battle

quer the island and thereby secured it for American occupancy.

Part of Munda Campaign

While the fighting for Munda, of which the Kula gulf action is an essential part, is similar in many respects to the campaign for Guadalcanal, it apparently is the reverse of the situation at Attu island in the North Pacific just a few weeks ago. The Japanese were never willing to risk any of their naval forces in those waters. Hence it may be assumed that the enemy regards the objectives for which the forces of General Douglas MacArthur and Admiral William F. Halsey, Jr. now are battling as far more important.

While American official sources have not commented on the Japanese fleet dispositions, the best opinion here is that the enemy's naval strength is divided about equally between a home fleet based on Japan itself and a South Pacific force probably based most of the time on Truk island. Any great weakening of the South Pacific force probably would strain Japanese defense over the entire area. The present fighting, therefore, confronts the Japanese with risks they can ill afford even in lighter units such as light cruisers and destroyers, ordinarily considered expendable. The Japanese probably do not have a great many of these ships left to spend without weakening their main fleet composition. Moreover, in fighting in the Solomons they are compelled to deploy them in narrow waters within easy range of American air power which in recent as well as earlier battles has conclusively proved its superiority over Japanese air power.

Ten Slaughterers Given Suspensions

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND, July 6.—Office of Price Administration suspension orders today forbade 10 northern Ohio slaughterers from killing livestock.

The slaughterers, including Dominic Rebman of Lorain and Howard E. Long of Barberton, were charged in hearings with failure to surrender ration points for meat disposed of at wholesale and other violations.

Robert P. Scholte, OPA district attorney, said the suspensions would be lifted when the slaughterers "straighten up their ration point accounts with the OPA. Should any of them continue slaughtering despite a suspension order, they will subject themselves to criminal prosecution."

The orders brought to 31 the number of slaughterers in the 19-county Cleveland district suspended during the last two weeks.

had to figure on a probable Russian offensive if he himself didn't strike first. There also has been the threat of invasion of western Europe by the Anglo-American forces.

However, he undoubtedly can spare a limited amount of air power to help Mussolini—providing he is safe from invasion across France. This aid might change the Mediterranean picture considerably in that it would make the Allied task of invasion tougher than has been anticipated.

A far more interesting point is what reaction the Nazi offensive in Russia may have on the Allied plans for ultimate invasion of western Europe. With Hitler heavily engaged on the eastern front we have a situation which rather invites Allied invasion of France.

Quite likely Premier Stalin foresaw this development when he renewed his appeal the other day for an opening of a second front in the west.

In any event, Hitler has opened the gates to the arena; and we are likely to see the conflict swell to a fierce pitch before British Premier Churchill's leaves of autumn begin to fall.
